

Alaska's 2010 NAHRA Regional Hunt Test July 10, 2010

A regional hunt test gives us an opportunity to recognize outstanding dogs within our organization. Due to our short limited hunt test season, a newly adopted Alaskan clause gives dogs 16 months to qualify for all stakes instead of 12 months. We feel the Alaskan NAHRA Regional Hunt Test is very special because of the fact that the qualifying dogs have far fewer opportunities to qualify compared with dogs running down south and by qualifying these dogs have accomplish that task of being nearly perfect.

Qualifying dogs have the opportunity to run in the stake in which they qualified. Dogs will receive a red, white, and blue NAHRA regional ribbon in the stake they are qualified for, and be featured in our catalog as NAHRA Regional Qualifying Dogs.

2010 Alaskan NAHRA Regional Hunt Test
Qualifying Stake	Requirements
Started	Passed 4 Started tests in a 16 month window
Hunter	Passed 4 Hunter tests in a 16 month window
Intermediate	Pass 4 Intermediate tests in a 16 month window
Senior	Passed 5 tests in a 16 month window or accumulated 100 points.